The American Numismatic Society is pleased to honor the Rosen Family, one of the Society's most loyal and longtime benefactors, with the Trustees' Award at the 2018 Annual Gala Dinner at the Harvard Club in New York City.

The Rosen Family has been a generous supporter of the American Numismatic Society for over four decades and has greatly enhanced the ANS collections with many important donations to its numismatic cabinet.

Collecting coins has been a lifelong passion for Mr. Jonathan Rosen, who received his first coin from his parents on his 10th birthday—a Roman silver denarius of Claudius and Nero. He has collected regularly ever since, moving from Roman coins to British Commonwealth pieces to early electrum coins. Currently he is focused on Cyzicus electrum staters and Hadrian's Travel Series.

Mr. Rosen is also an avid collector of ancient art—with one of the world's most important private collections of Mesopotamian cylinder seals. Jonathan's wife, Jeannette, has steadfastly encouraged his interests over their many years of marriage, and together they support many important cultural institutions, including the Metropolitan Museum of Art, the Brooklyn Museum, the Israel Museum, Bible Lands Museum, and the Morgan Library and Museum, where they have endowed a chair, the Jeannette and Jonathan P. Rosen Curatorship in the Department of Ancient Near Eastern Seals and Tablets. They also are major benefactors to such educational institutions as Amherst College, where they help fund the Chair of American Studies for Henry Steele Commager, and Emory, Yale, Cornell, and Columbia universities, along with the Institute for the Study of the Ancient World at New York University.

Adam Rosen is following in his father's footsteps, both as a collector and a philanthropist. He is a serious collector of ancient art and coinage, sharing his father's passion for Greek coins and especially electrum.
